

BarnBurner TV Network to Partner with The College Of Sports Media

The BarnBurner Network is pleased to announce that it will be welcoming students of The College of Sports Media to broadcast on the newly launched BarnBurner TV Network with partner ZingoTV.

The College of Sports Media is the leading Canadian educational institution for radio and television sports broadcasting, offering a 2 year diploma with a guaranteed internship to its students.

Fans can tune into the College of Sports Media via the BarnBurner TV Network every Wednesday and Thursday from 10am-7pm in the upcoming months.

“We’re looking forward to bringing fresh and exciting sports content from these talented students to our fans”, says Joseph Peisich, BarnBurner show host.

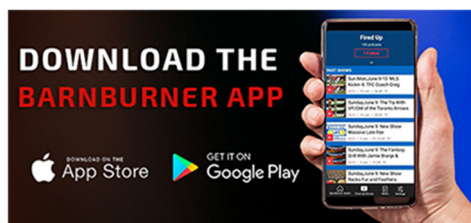

“This is a first for CSM. The benefactors of this partnership are the students and the networks of course, and while we continue to observe our public health officials all of these future media professionals now have over 100 platforms that they will be exposed to.” says David Lanys, President of The College of Sports Media.

BarnBurner fans can also now access their favourite FiredUp shows on ZingoTV’s channel 250 via a range of popular platforms like iOS, Android, Roku, Chromecast, Amazon Fire TV and every Smart TV from 2016 on.

Don't forget to download the official BarnBurner app

The official BarnBurner app is also now available for download via The App Store on Apple/iOS devices, in addition to Google Play on Android devices. The app features Live Barn Burner Radio as well as the website’s popular FIRED UP podcast shows to bring the latest trending sports news and insider discussions directly to fans.
